

Introduction

Our firm is registered with the US Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") as an Investment Adviser.

You have a choice among different types of financial services professionals to assist you with your financial needs. These professionals offer a variety of services and face different regulatory oversight. It is important for you to understand the differences between the services offered, such as the difference between brokerage and investment advisory services, so that you can make an informed decision. This Summary is designed to help you understand the types of financial services our firm can provide you. The SEC also provides free and simple tools that allow you to research firms and financial professionals at www.investor.gov/CRS.

What Investment Services and Advice Can you Provide Me?

At DWM, we provide investment advisory services to retail investors. We offer portfolio management services, which include financial planning as needed, in order to implement the investment plan that we develop together with you by investing your assets accordingly. This plan is based specifically on your unique goals. We offer periodic updates to your goals-based investment plan, with interim updates available if your financial circumstances change. For this service, we generally require a minimum investment portfolio of $350,000. For portfolio management clients, we monitor collectively the investments of all of our clients on a continuous basis, and we review your particular investment plan in depth at least quarterly, again with interim reviews and updates any time life changes. We do not try to time the market. We like to talk to our clients regularly to check in and make sure we are still on track with the plan. For a limited group of clients, we offer an on-going relationship through our PARTNER Program. This program generally has lower minimum portfolio value requirements. In addition, we offer retirement plan consulting services to Plans and Plan Fiduciaries. We also offer general consulting services on a project basis.

We invest client accounts in individual stocks and bonds, as well as mutual funds and exchange traded funds. Most of our clients engage us for discretionary portfolio management. This means you give us the authority to place trades without consulting with you in advance. You may impose certain written restrictions on us in the management of your investment portfolio. However, restrictions imposed by you may adversely affect the composition and performance of your investment portfolio.

If you choose a non-discretionary relationship, you will ultimately make the final decision regarding every investment decision; you will have to provide your approval for each transaction in your account(s). While we are happy to accommodate this arrangement, you should know that this can have an impact on our ability to manage your account(s) efficiently and may result in delays in implementing our advice.

More information is available in our Form ADV Part 2A (our "Brochure"), in Items 4 and 7; please click here for a link to our Brochure or call our office to have one sent to you. Here are some questions you might want to discuss with us in more detail:

Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?

How will you choose investments to recommend to me?

What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

What Fees Will I Pay?

Fees and costs will affect the value of your portfolio over time. Our only source of compensation is the fees we charge for advisory services. We have no products to sell and we do not accept commissions or any form of compensation from outside parties. Portfolio management fees are calculated as a percentage of the assets we manage for you and are billed quarterly in advance. This aligns our interests with yours since we earn more money as the value of your portfolio increases. Our financial success is based on your financial success. General consulting fees are agreed to in advance of services being provided and are usually assessed on an hourly or fixed fee basis.

In addition to the fees that we charge, your portfolio will incur other expenses. The most common examples are brokerage transaction fees (such as the fee that the broker charges to buy or sell a security in your account) and mutual fund internal expenses. You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. More information is available in our Form ADV Part 2A (our “Brochure”), in Item 5, and we are happy to discuss fee arrangements in more detail with you. For example, you might want to ask:

Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my Investment Adviser? How else does your firm make money, and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interests and not put our interests ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide to you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

The concept of conflicts of interest sounds complicated but we don't think it is. A conflict exists whenever one party can potentially benefit at the expense of another party. We have gone to great lengths to diminish or eliminate the majority of conflicts of interest that naturally exist in the client/adviser relationship. For example, we are only paid based on the value of the assets we manage on your behalf, or fixed or hourly fees as agreed. We never invest your money in any proprietary products that would result in additional payments to our firm or our financial professionals. We do not accept soft dollar payments, a common industry practice in which the transaction fees that clients pay are used to purchase research or other products that are useful to an RIA. As described in detail in Item 12 of our Form ADV Part 2A, we recommend that you hold your account(s) at TD Ameritrade Institutional (“TD Ameritrade”), which offers an advisor-based program. We receive benefits from our participation in this program, which provides an incentive for us to encourage you to keep your account(s) at TD Ameritrade. However, we pass those benefits on to you in the form of enhanced pricing and top tier customer service, to name just two. Since our inception, DWM has held to what is known as a fiduciary standard. The standard requires our constant commitment to our duty of loyalty and care to you, our client. Not all advisers are held to the fiduciary standard. While brokers have recently been legally forced to adopt certain tenets of the fiduciary standard, DWM has always held to this higher level of trust and fierce protection of your interests. We recommend you always ask any financial professional if they will be held to the fiduciary standard in all their dealings with you. To continue this conversation, you might want to ask:

How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professionals are paid a salary and are also eligible to receive bonuses based on new clients brought to the firm and on existing clients retained at the firm, or overall profitability of the firm. None of our financial professionals earn any type of commission (e.g., product sales commissions or revenue from securities bought or sold).

DWM is also licensed by the Florida Board of Accountancy as a Public Accounting firm, and as such offers tax preparation services. Fees for tax preparation are separately negotiated and charged.

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?

No - none of our investment professionals has any disciplinary history to disclose. There is a free and simple tool available at www.investor.gov/CRS, which you can access at any time to read about our firm and our financial professionals. You might want to ask:

As a financial professional, do you have any disciplinary history? For what type of conduct?
